Temporary License Site Remediation Professional (LSRP) Application Closes April 1, 2012.

Effective April 1, 2012, the New Jersey Department of Environmental Protection (Department) will not process any new applications for temporary licensure. The Department is imposing this deadline so that it can transition to the permanent License Site Remediation Professional program. Information concerning application procedures, including dates and locations for the permanent licensing examination, will be addressed in future announcements both on the SRP web site and the SRPL Board web site at www.nj.gov/lsrpboard/.

The Department will process applications for temporary licensure that were received prior to April 1, 2012; however, applications and fees for temporary licensure received after April 1, 2012 will be returned to the applicant. Decisions regarding temporary license applications will be made by April 30, 2012. No new temporary licenses will be awarded by the Department after April 30, 2012.
