[SRRA]: RE: "Non-compliant underground storage tank report" now available

The New Jersey Department of Environmental Protection has posted a new DataMiner report which enables the user to receive a list of all Underground Storage Tank (UST) facilities with expired UST Registrations. An UST facility which is not properly registered is not in compliance with the Underground Storage Tank rules, N.J.A.C. 7:14B, and is therefore not eligible to receive deliveries [see N.J.A.C. 7:14B-5.9(b)].

The UST registrations are sorted by 'Date Status Changed' to allow the user to see the most recent changes. This report enables the user to select by county and allows for selection of one or more counties at a time. A list can be printed in PDF or Excel format.

This report was created to ensure that UST facilities are properly registered prior to fuel being delivered. This report will assist fuel suppliers, as they will be able to review this report and ensure whether a delivery should be made to an UST facility. Fuel suppliers can be found in violation of the Underground Storage Tank rules if they deliver product to an UST that is not properly registered. This report will also allow licensed site remediation professionals (LSRPs) to confirm the registration status for their clients.

A facility listed in this report will not be removed until a valid registration is issued. It is expected that if an UST facility cannot receive fuel, this report will assist in bringing the facility back into compliance.
